Iran Complaint Is Ordered Withdrawn

Bowles Declares Controls Must Continue In Effect

EXTENSION OF RESTRAINT IS GIVEN BOOST

Predicts Lifting of OPA Generally By June 30, 1947, In All But Acute Shortages

UPRISING IS BITTER

Washington, April 15—(AP)—Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles told senators today that if price controls stay in effect there is reasonable hope that "we will be out of the woods of extreme inflationary danger by the end of 1946."

And if this happens, he testified at senate banking committee hearings, "controls can be lifted generally by June 30, 1947, in all but the areas of acute shortage."

Bowles opened the administration drive for a one-year extension of the Office of Price Administration which otherwise expires June 30, 1946.

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) read a letter from John W. Snyder, reconstruction director, urging continuation of OPA without crippling change and asking continuation of subsidies to keep down retail prices.

Friends and foes of OPA awaited the signal for house debate on price control extension.

The outcome poses for President Truman the severest test on economic policy since he entered the White House.

Rep. Monroney (D-Okla.) told newsmen "there is danger OPA will be so amended—and made powerless to prevent inflation—that even the enemies of price control will be ashamed of their handiwork."

Before the legislative firing could get underway in the house, that chamber planned to dispose of another red hot issue—draft extension, then take up a pay increase bill for the armed services and devote part of its program to an observance of Pan American day.

Thus the actual debate may not begin until about the time set for a mid-afternoon meeting of cotton state senators to give the price control agency a going over. Some have proposed that OPA be divested of control over all farm products.

Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.), who called the meeting of senators, declared, "I'm disgusted with the way OPA is being run, and if they don't improve it I'll vote to knock the whole thing out."

The congressional uprising against OPA became so bitter that one of the agency's foremost critics, Rep. Hartley (R-NJ), urged "moderation" in the house debate and action on amendments. Hartley, who earlier organized a (Turn to Page Nine)

President Urges Continuance Of Hemispheric Solidarity In Pan American Day Talk

Washington, April 15—(P)—President Truman called upon the American republics today to help eradicate "the poverty and despair" which breeds wars.

Speaking at a Pan-American Day observance, Mr. Truman urged continued hemispheric solidarity and resistance to the "forces of reaction" in the atomic era's "great and dangerous adventure."

"That (atomic) age," he told the governing board of the Pan-American Union, "will either be one of complete devastation or one in which new sources of power will lighten the labors of mankind and increase standards of living all over the world."

The president declared in a prepared speech that willingness to use force, if necessary, to prevent even the threat of aggression, "will not of itself eliminate the deep causes of unrest such as those responsible for two wars."

"Underneath the Nazi madness were the material distress and spiritual starvation born of poverty and despair," he said.

"The danger of war will never be completely wiped out until these economic ills which constitute the roots of war are themselves eliminated. To do that we must achieve the kind of live—material, cultural and spiritual—to which the peoples of this world are entitled. To that objective we must dedicate all our energies and resources."

This objective, he said, is embodied by the word, "democracy" which "is the rallying cry today for free men everywhere in their struggle for a better human life."

Declaring that the American republics have repeatedly reaffirmed their devotion to democracy's ideals, "in face of constant propaganda for Nazi and Fascist doctrines," the president expressed confidence they will continue the "bold stand" with which "they have resisted the forces of reaction from abroad during the last decade."

He paid tribute to the part the late President Roosevelt and former Secretary of State Cordell Hull played in building inter-American "good neighbor policy" which he said laid the foundations for the United Nations. The U. N., he declared, "will succeed. It must succeed."

Butte, Mont., April 15—(P)—Governor Sam Ford declined today to call for federal troops to enter riot-racked Butte pending a direct appeal from municipal authorities and the strike-bound city—nervously awaited darkness and a feared third night of rampant vandalism.

Butte, Mont., April 15—(P)—Gov. Sam Ford disclosed today he was considering asking the federal government for help to stop riots in Butte that left scores of houses wrecked, two boys wounded and an unannounced number of mobsters under arrest.

Declaring in Helena that he would talk with Butte peace officers—greatly outnumbered by predators—before deciding whether to ask for federal assistance, the governor said:

SPY NETWORK IN FAR EAST IS BROKEN UP

Seven Axis Nationals Whom U. S. Investigators Say Operated In Orient Are In Custody

HOSTILE TO THE ALLIES

By RICHARD CUSHING
Shanghai, April 15—(P)—Seven Axis nationals whom U. S. investigators said were the remnants of a once-powerful Nazi spy network which continued to operate in the Orient four months after Germany's surrender were arrested today.

This culmination of months of intensive work by U. S. officers was one of the most important roundups of international figures yet conducted in the Far East. They included four Germans, two Italians and one Japanese.

All are charged with war crimes activities hostile to the United States. They presumably will be tried in China, although it was predicted earlier that they would be returned to Germany on the ship leaving June 15 with German repatriates. Investigators, however, said there were sufficient witnesses in China to testify against them.

Lt. Col. Ludwig Ehrhardt (alias Eisenträger and Count Schwerin) 60, was identified as leader of the group. Marine Capt. Frank Farrell of New York City, who was on his trail since early September, said Ehrhardt was a personal friend of Hitler and chief of the Nazi fifth column sent into the Balkans in the late 30's.

American authorities said that so far not a single German agent has been able to escape, and added that arrests of other smaller fry might be expected later.

The men were called this morning before Lt. Col. Jeremiah O'Connor, Washington, D. C., of the China theater judge advocate office for "routine questioning."

When they were gathered, military police called the roll and hustled them off to jail. While the Chinese have some interest in the case because their alleged crimes were against the interests of China also, the U. S. was expected to be given a free hand in dealing with the group.

Captain Farrell and Marvin M. Gray of New York have handled the investigation since the Japanese surrender.

Erie Officials Preparing For Murder Trial

Erie, April 15—The district attorney's office has started summoning witnesses who will appear before the grand jury two weeks from Monday when murder charges are considered against "Big Mike" Bubna, Millie Thomas and Mike Dominick.

The three are accused of the March 4 slaying of Robert Fischer in the basement murder of the Bubna home at 1212 W. 26th St. In addition, Millie faces charges of accessory before and after the murder.

Should there be indictments on all of the murder charges, present plans call for the state to place Mike and his sister Millie on trial together about May 14. Dominick's separate trial would follow.

Chief among the witnesses who will testify before the grand jury is Dominick, who in a statement to police following his arrest accused Bubna as the actual killer and named Millie as an accomplice insofar as she attempted to hide identity of the victim's body. Dominick himself, had denied participation in the murder itself but admits hiding the body in a ravine near the Erie golf course.

The state's second most important witness will be Violet Eleanor Tarbell, who was arrested with Dominick in Savannah, Ga., after the murder and who was in the house at the time the state claims the slaying took place.

Failure of Millie on Friday to win her freedom on a writ if habeas corpus cleared the way for grand jury consideration of the case.

Blame OPA for Chicken Crematorium

Thousands of chickens which normally would be fattened and sold as food are being slaughtered and burned each week by southern California poultrymen because of a feed shortage and high feed prices attributed to the re-routing of grain for Europe and to OPA's failure to place a ceiling on feed with a 30 per cent protein content. Roland Anderson, operator of a poultry ranch near Orange, Calif., is pictured above just after he touched a match to kerosene-soaked pullets lying on the special incinerator he constructed for reducing the chicken population.

Damaging Evidence Is Given In Infamous Prison Deaths

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
Nuernberg, April 15—(P)—Rudolf Hoess, former commandant of the infamous Oswiecin concentration camp, testified before the international military tribunal today that Defendant Ernst Kaltenbrunner and his staff were responsible for all orders for commitments and individual executions in concentration camps.

Hoess, a defense witness, gave this testimony under cross-examination by the United States prosecution. The evidence was considered the most damaging of any given against Kaltenbrunner to date.

He said that Kaltenbrunner, as chief of the Nazi Security Police, gave orders for "protective custody, commitments, punishment and individual executions." Such orders, the witness said, were signed either by Kaltenbrunner or by his deputy, Heinrich Mueller.

The defense, apparently taken by surprise, attempted only brief counter-questioning to show that Mueller's signatures on execution orders appeared more frequently than Kaltenbrunner's.

The witness said Kaltenbrunner also held in his hands the fate of thousands of prisoners at Mauthausen who were known as "detainees without a name."

Hoess, 46, who was arrested last March 2 after a lengthy search, spoke in a matter-of-fact tone of his three-year rule at Oswiecin, during which, he admitted, 2,500,000 prisoners were executed there. But the horrors of Oswiecin, he said, were a secret between himself, Heinrich Himmler and "60 men who received detainees marked for death." The 60 were sworn to secrecy, he testified.

Bring Back Daddies Club Is Set to Act

Pittsburgh, April 15—(P)—The Bring Back Daddies Club of Pittsburgh and similar clubs throughout the United States plan a demonstration at Washington May 13 "unless something is done about releasing fathers from military duty," a club official declared last night.

"We'll stay there until they do something about it," asserted Mrs. Maude Evans, vice president of the Pittsburgh club.

She said members of her organization were making arrangements to charter a bus from Pittsburgh to the nation's capital, and that clubs in other states were making similar plans.

Jap Officers are Sentenced For Atrocities

Shanghai, April 15—(P)—Three Japanese officers charged with war crimes in connection with the execution of three of the Doolittle airmen here in 1942, were sentenced to five years at hard labor today. A fourth defendant was sentenced to nine years at hard labor.

The five man military commission which heard the trial blamed higher governmental and military officials for the executions in explaining the surprisingly light sentences.

Those sentenced were Lt. Gen. Shigeru Savada, former commander of the Japanese 13th Army; Capt. Sotojiro Natsuta, commander of the Kiangwan Military Prison where the fliers were held; and Capt. Kusei Wako and Lt. Ryuhel Okada of the court-martial board which condemned the three to death.

"Unusually strong mitigating considerations" were found in the case, the commission said, in observing that the defendants merely obeyed orders from higher officials in the military and government and "exercised an initiative to any marked degree."

The Americans for whose death the Japanese were tried were Lt. Dean E. Hallmark, Dallas, Tex.; Lt. William G. Fallow, Darlington, S. C., and Sgt. Harold A. Spatz, Lebo, Kas., all of whom were captured when their plane crashed on the China coast after the first American air raid on Tokyo in April, 1942.

Conditions and Circumstances That Dictated Giving of Allegation Against Soviets No Longer Arises
Dispatch From Tehran Says

ARMY SAID TO BE REOCCUPYING GARRISONS

BULLETIN
London, April 15—(P)—The British government believes the Iranian question should be left to the Security Council agenda and has instructed its delegate accordingly. Foreign Undersecretary Hector McNeill told the house of commons today.

Tehran, Iran, April 15—(P)—Prince Mozafer Firouz, propaganda director, said today that Hussein Ala, Iranian ambassador to the United States, had been instructed "immediately to withdraw Iran's complaint before the Security Council."

The nation previously had made an issue before the United Nations over the continued presence of Russian troops, which Moscow now says will be withdrawn by May 6.

Firouz made this statement:

"Today we have given certain instructions to Mr. Ala. You are aware of the results of the agreement between the imperial Iranian government and Soviet Russia concerning evacuation of all Persian territory by May 6."

"Conditions and circumstances which dictated the giving of the complaint to the Security Council no longer arise and in view of the fact that yesterday afternoon, the Russian Ambassador again categorically reiterated to his excellency, the prime minister, that complete and unconditional evacuation by the Red army would be completed by May 6, instructions have been sent this morning by the Persian government informing its representative in New York of the new pledge of the Soviet government and instructing him that since the Persian government has complete confidence in the word and pledge of the Soviet government, he is instructed immediately to withdraw the complaint before the Security Council."

An official foreign source at Tabriz, capital of semi-autonomous Azerbaijan province, said today there still were no signs of Russian evacuation there.

"The Red army is improving its communications systems and putting up a new rest camp and officers' resident facilities," the informant said.

Radio Tabriz asserted that the Azerbaijan "government" had received no communications from the Tehran government and denied reports that negotiations between the regimes are being planned.

Firouz said yesterday that Iran had asked "representatives of the Azerbaijan people" to a conference at Karaj "in the near future."

Two-to-One Split In the Big Three Expected Over Russia

New York, April 15—(P)—Another sharp debate over the Iranian case was forecast for today's session of the United Nations Security Council, despite instructions from the Iranian government to its ambassador to "immediately withdraw" the complaint before the council.

Iran had appealed to the UN over continued presence of Soviet troops, which Moscow said would be withdrawn by May 6, but today her spokesman in Tehran declared that "conditions and circumstances" which dictated the giving of the complaint to the Security Council no longer exist. Russia previously had demanded that the question be expunged from the agenda of the council.

British sources took the view that the mere fact of Iran asking to have the matter taken off the agenda would not of itself end the business as far as the council was concerned. These sources took the attitude that it was strictly a council matter and any elimination move was up to the delegates.

The United States course was represented as being that the council had assumed troops would be withdrawn when it postponed consideration to next month and any statement to that effect now by either government would merely be confirmation.

The 32nd session of the council convenes at 3 p. m.

Nevertheless, authoritative American and British sources said Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., the American delegate, and Sir Alexander Cadogan, the British representative, would firmly oppose Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko's insistence that the council reverse its position. It was indicated the majority of the delegates would go along with Stettinius and Cadogan.

The Iranian issue was top billing on the provisional agenda. Pressing it closely for world attention, however, is the Polish (Turn to Page Nine)

Ader, who recently entered the ranks of dirt track drivers, turned back several well known race drivers, including Joe Chitwood, Reading; Ted Horn, Paterson, N. J., and Bill Holland, White Plains, N. Political Campaign Gains Momentum During the Week

Harrisburg, April 15—(P)—John U. Shroyer, new guard group candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, said 2,200 attendants and doctors at state institutions had been given a "secret wage increase" by the present administration.

Shroyer, former state secretary of highways in Governor Martin's cabinet, and now opposing James H. Duff, present attorney general, at the May 21 primary said in a statement the increase "was not announced to the press."

He declared he did not know "whether this was done to allow my opponent to make the announcement, x x x or to keep it a secret from the thousands of other state employees."

The political campaign gained momentum over the weekend as Shroyer's headquarters announced the first of a series of radio talks for tonight (6:15 p. m.) while the Republican organization candidates planned a regional rally at Oil City on Thursday.

As the opposing Republican candidates continue their vote drive a suggestion came from the Democratic side for an organized effort to get names of unregistered voters on the registration lists for the November election "as part of a political demonstration in good citizenship."

Rep. H. G. Andrews, Democrat, leader of the house, made the suggestion in a letter to the state chairman of the Republican and Democratic parties and the candidates for governor.

With Democratic organization candidates conducting a quiet primary campaign, their next scheduled rally is at Gettysburg on April 24, home city of Col. John S. Rice, candidate for Lie gubernatorial nomination.

Coal Strike Enters Third Week With Many More Idle

Pittsburgh, April 15—(P)—Unemployment in steel mills, railroads and other coal-consuming industries rose to nearly 35,000 today as the nation's soft coal strike entered its third week.

Among the idle are 16,000 in U. S. Steel plants in the Pittsburgh and Chicago areas, 4,500 Baltimore & Ohio Railroad workers, and some 7,000 in Pittsburgh District railroads, trucking firms, and small steel plants.

In addition, lack of fuel will cause the Sharon Steel Corp. to suspend production this week at its Farrell plant, which employs 4,200.

In Washington, bituminous coal operators declared they "still desire to meet with the United Mine Workers to negotiate an agreement" for the 400,000 striking miners.

Union chieftain John L. Lewis bolted the conference last Wednesday, declaring the operators wanted to talk wages and hours. Lewis says he's interested in mine safety and creation of a health and welfare fund for the miners.

At Cleveland, the Magazine Steel reported production of sheet-iron—among the most critical of all steel products—had not yet been materially affected by the strike but, that output of plates, bars, rails, and some other items had been hit severely.

Another week of the strike may see considerable effect on sheets, the trade publication said.

Pittsburgh, April 15—(P)—The executive council of the Federation of Westinghouse Independent Salaries Unions has turned thumbs down on a company offer of a 17 1/2 cents an hour pay hike for its more than 20,000 white collar workers unless certain proposed contract clauses are changed.

The 20 to 5 vote was announced late last night by Federation President Leo F. Bollens, who said the council had been authorized by the 19 local salaries unions to accept or reject the proposal.

Bollens said negotiations would be held with the company to change the clauses.

Meanwhile, the strike of 76,000 production workers at Westinghouse plants neared the end of its 12th week, with exploratory conferences between the company and the CIO United Electrical Workers slated to resume tomorrow.

The settlement attempts will center on contracts at the company's lamp division plants in New Jersey and West Virginia.

To Sow Seeds in Hills You Start With a Hollow

Hills are fixed points for planting, lined up and spaced equal distances apart.

When instructions say to sow seed in hills it does not mean to build a mound of soil and sow the seeds on top of it.

Hills may be hollows in the modern garden; they are seldom elevated, except in sections where rainfall is heavy and drainage poor. To sow seeds in hills means to spot them at definite intervals some distance apart, instead of sowing a continuous row.

Plants often sown in hills are the vine crops—cucumbers, melons, squash—and those that grow very large or tall, such as sweet corn, bush squash and tomatoes. The procedure is to stretch a line, just as you would for a seed drill, and along this mark the location of the hills at the proper intervals. Three feet or more should usually be allowed between hills, and at least as much between the rows of hills. Scoop out a shallow depression and mix with the soil at its bottom a quantity of plant food, which may vary from a tablespoonful to a pint. The latter heavy dose is recommended by southern watermelon experts, for hills in which this crop is sown. Mix the plant food thoroughly and cover it with fresh soil, almost filling the hole; then sow the seed and cover with light soil, which can be depended upon not to form a crust before the seeds have sprouted.

When the seeds sprout they should be thinned out to the required number of plants. For those that grow in bush form, one plant to a hill is all that should be grown. Sweet corn is usually grown three plants to a hill; and vine crops the same. Thinning should be gradual, at first enough to insure each infant plant a chance to grow without interference from neighbors. Then as the plants become established the weakest should be eliminated until only the desired number remain.

Army DUKW Gave Warren Folk Trip On River Saturday

The Army DUKW which visited the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, Warren, Pa., Friday and Saturday provided hundreds of Warrenites with a close-up view of some of the fine equipment which makes the U. S. Army the best equipped in the world.

With Burgess Wm. F. Crosssett and Police Chief Haehn and other dignitaries as guest riders, the DUKW was launched from Crescent Park in a demonstration run. The DUKW rolled into the water and under power of its propeller cruised up to the Hickory Street bridge where it turned around and returned to the launching point.

A loud speaker system explained some of the chief features of the DUKW. Some of these were 10 speeds forward with all six wheels power drive, an automatic bilge water pump, and the speed of 6 miles per hour in water, 50 miles per hour on land.

The most unusual feature is that each of the tires can be inflated and deflated from a control operated by the driver from within the cap. This is used to provide better traction when pulling over sand or other surfaces.

The Army is desirous for the public to be familiar with its equipment and is anxious to have every American informed about the new Army as well as about the many attractive privileges which are open today to men who join the Best Army in the World. Visit the Recruiting Station, 303 Second Avenue to get the facts.

Pennsy Railroad Officials On Inspection Tour of Area

During the past week a group of Pennsylvania engineers, officials with W. O. Teufel, superintendent of the Central Division have been making a thorough inspection of the Renovo division. During the past years this division has suffered a series of wrecks that have been costly. Reports from along the division are that the roadbed conditions are poor and that due to the heavy traffic the railroad has been unable to keep up maintenance of rolling stock as it should.

It has been reported that an extensive rebuilding program is to be undertaken among other items being a new bridge at Warren for which Federal permission was recently given. The building of this bridge will call for extensive work of engineering in widening curves, etc., in this city.

From Erie to Emporium anyone who rides one of the Passenger trains is given a fine jolting and bumping but after Emporium is reached the roadbed is smooth and in good shape. The Renovo division can certainly stand a large amount of work and it is due to the inspection of the officials will lead to some construction and building that will make this route once again comfortable and attractive.

Pilling Ends Long Service With the State

Elmer Pilling, of Pittsfield, last week ended 21 years of service with the Pennsylvania State Game Commission. A portion of the time he served in this section and was a capable officer. Later he was transferred east and worked there, but during the past few years he has been Game Refuge Keeper at Penfield. In his work at Penfield he has supervision of 35,000 acres and occupied a house at Glass City, which was erected by the Commission. His work has been outstanding as much land-clearing has been done, reforestation projects have been carried out and these combined with the natural water resources enabled him to make many improvements.

Mr. and Mrs. Pilling have returned to Pittsfield where they will occupy a country home and Mr. Pilling will occupy himself with gardening and raising chickens. Their many friends in the Pittsfield section welcome them back as they are estimable citizens.

SET ENVIABLE RECORD

The placing of three Dragon cagers on the Associated Press scholastic basketball teams has broken all previous records for such honors and sets a very enviable record. Only once before, last year when old Scallie received honorable mention, did a local player receive such an honor. This year, however, was different. Dick Harris was placed on the first team, Jack Eaton on the third, and Al Babcock received honorable mention.

INTERESTIN LETTER

R. E. Wald, who was chairman of the advertising committee of Warren's Old Home Week in 1923 is in receipt of an interesting letter from Captain John Slater, who conducted the 48th Highland Band, of Toronto, Canada which was a feature of the celebration. Captain Slater now says that he is retired "with all debts paid and no complaints". He recalled his visit to Warren as one of the pleasant incidents of conducting the famous band for a period of 50 years.

CORNER SECOND AVENUE & LIBERTY STREET

Always Popular Cape Cod Designs In House-of-the-Month

The Dobbs, uniting at the salient qualifications of 20th Century desires of livability, bows in tribute to the classic simplicity, quiet dignity and economy of quaint Cape Cod Colonial architecture. As a renowned authority on this particular type of design, Architect Royal Barry Wills has created this home as an exclusive design for nationwide presentation as the current House-of-the-Month.

Its sweeping exterior is of painted wide siding with stained roof shingles and matching shutters. An attached garage, set back from the main section, forms a pleasant break in the line of the roof and combines in a distinctive wing effect.

Decorative shutters frame the charming doorway to the front foyer which has a guest closet appropriately located. The inner wall of the living room is usually decorative with its fireplace, built-in wood storage space and recessed cupboard. The kitchen, set back-to-back with the bath for reason of economy, has its own service entry and is accessible from both the dining and living room. The dining room, with double exposure, opens onto an attractive porch overlooking the rear garden. This porch may be used for outdoor meals in the summer months and also serves as a covered entry from the rear of the garage. Two cross ventilated and generous sized bedrooms form the right portion of The Dobbs. Each has a large closet in addition to a handy storage space located between the two rooms. Built-in linen shelves are at attractive feature of the bath, which is convenient to all rooms of the house.

Allowing for future family expansion, two bedrooms and possibly an extra bath may be converted from the large unfinished attic with its stairway located directly off the front entry. To increase the livability of this area such a conversion would necessitate the addition of one or more dormers. However, if additional rooms are not required at the present time you will find the attic an ideal put-away and storage space for the clutter proof dwelling.

Sensitive to the needs of today, the entire electrical pattern has been effectively laid out to provide a maximum of convenient outlets and has been checked and approved ed by the National Adequate Wiring Bureau.

Measuring forty-eight and a half feet on the street side and extending to a depth of almost thirty-nine feet, The Dobbs nestles within an area of 2,094 square feet, or approximately 16,000 cubic feet.

This truly comfortable one story five room house with expansion attic has been designed to conform with the rigid standards and construction requirements of the FHA.

The Dobbs is now being featured at the Warren National Bank. Colored sketches of Architect Wills' rendering, together with complete floor plans, are available to prospective home builders. Blueprints and complete specifications with alternates also await your inspection. For those who prefer other styles of architecture, similar material is available for many former Houses-of-the-Month.

The early American eating places were patterned after the inns, taverns, and coffee-houses in England and on the Continent.

Kane Pastor Is Speaker At "Y" Luncheon

Speaking on the subject "The Power of God—To Believe," Rev. George H. Palmer, pastor of First Methodist church, Kane, addressed the men's luncheon meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Friday noon. Rev. Palmer's message contained a definite "lift" for the men who heard him, stressing the fact that God believes in us, His creation,—has faith in us to succeed in doing good.

Rev. H. H. Barr, as a member of the religious emphasis committee of the "Y," presided. The opening and closing prayers were given by Rev. Nore Gustafson and Rev. Wayne Furman respectively. The singing of hymns was led by General Secretary Ralph Wagner, with Horace Stevenson playing the piano accompaniment.

Boy members and their parents are urged to remember that the "Y" Boys Lenten service will be held on Good Friday morning at 10 o'clock. "Who is My Neighbor"—The Good Samaritan story—will be the theme, and the Cathedral motion picture of that title will be shown.

Now...no wheat used in beer or ale

And wheat alone can solve the problem of feeding the world's hungry

Actually wheat has never been a large item in the brewing process—only $\frac{2}{10,000}$ of the entire U. S. wheat crop was used in 1945.

In accordance with United States Government policy, the brewing industry has used no wheat whatever since March 1, 1946.

OTHER MATERIALS CUT 30%

The other grains used have been reduced by 30%—that is, to 70% of the 1945 amount.

Wheat alone can solve the problem of feeding the hungry. The grains to which the industry is now restricted, are of a variety and grade not normally consumed by the people of the world as food.

LESS BEER AND ALE

Altogether, the brewing industry is using 30% less materials than in 1945. This results in a proportionately lower production. But since the current demand for beer and ale is about 25% greater than a year ago, the real shortage is nearer 50%.

Consequently, your dealer will not be able to supply you with all the beer and ale you would like. We know you will understand the reason for this.

Your attention is earnestly directed to the recommendations of President Truman's Famine Emergency Committee, which are summarized in the box below.

This statement tells in clear, simple terms what each of us individually can do to help during the emergency.

What the President's Famine Emergency Committee asks us all to do

1. Save and share wheat and fat products . . . Go light on all foods that take wheat, fats and oils—save breads, macaroni, cakes, cookies, pastries and deep-fried foods. Use drippings for pan-frying. Save salad oil—use boiled dressings.
2. Buy and serve more plentiful foods . . . Balance diets with the more plentiful foods, such as potatoes, fresh fruits and vegetables.
3. Waste NO food . . . Dress up today's leftovers for tomorrow. Make every crust count with melba toast, crumb-toppings, bread puddings and stuffings. Take no more than you can eat. Clean your plate. Turn in unusable fat salvage promptly.

Approximately eight million dollars more of Savings Bonds, Series E. F. and G. were sold in March in Pennsylvania, than in February, and twelve million more than January. Over two million dollars more in E Bonds were sold in March over February. Warren county alone showed purchase of approximately $165,000 in March, $62,118.50 of which was in "E" bonds.

PROGRESS BY EMBARRASSMENT

The Russian government seems to have been embarrassed by the UN Security Council's consideration of the Russo-Iranian controversy. So Russia, through her obedient friend and neighbor, Poland, apparently is trying to embarrass the United States and Britain by calling attention again to the continued existence of the Franco government in Spain.

Russia's attempt will probably be successful. During the war the two allied western democracies played along with Franco for understandable reasons of expediency. Since those reasons have become invalid, they have made known their dislike of the Franco government by a half-hearted and ineffective invitation to the Spanish people to turn out the Falangist clique.

Meanwhile Russia, France and others have pressed for stronger measures. Now things are coming to a head, as they were bound to. A possible result is that the United Nations may be able to establish a precedent as to what constitutes a threat to world peace and what constitutes interference in a nation's internal policies.

There are proven charges against Franco. He gained and held his power with the military help of the Axis. He was a fawning admirer of Hitler and Mussolini, and gave them considerable aid in World War II. He had modeled his government along Axis lines, and is running a dictatorship of a cruel and repressive sort.

But does that make Franco a menace to world peace? Should the United Nations take active steps to remove him—even though the Spanish people, given a free election, might astound the world by voting him continuance in power, as the Argentine voters did Peron?

There is no reason to answer yes to both those questions. The Spain of Franco is a menace to world peace because, so long as it remains, the fight against the Axis is not ended. World War II was a war between hostile, incompatible ideologies, even though we seem to have forgotten that today. It was a war to rid the world of the barbarian Hitler and his barbarous ideas of race and government.

But those ideas still flourish in Madrid. And so long as they do, Spanish soil is a dangerously fertile ground for the unfinished ideological war to break out again.

Franco Spain also merits some punishment by the victorious United Nations as an active, if feeble, Axis partner. Spain's collaboration cost Allied lives and delayed victory. Her "neutrality" may have been as much of an asset to Hitler as Italy's belligerency was a liability.

These are all familiar facts, but they must be faced. And when they are faced and acted upon, there are many more trouble spots in the world which must be dealt with before peace becomes a comfortable reality.

All these trouble spots—India, Egypt, Argentina, Indonesia, Palestine, the Balkans, and the rest—are an embarrassment to one or another of the great powers. Mutual efforts to embarrass one's neighbors are not the ideal way to cure international headaches. But if they result in clearing up the trouble spots, we cannot quarrel too strongly with the method.

Richard Harris, "Dick" to the hundreds of basketball fans of this section has received a signal honor for his splendid play and clean sportsmanship in the recent basketball season with the Dragons. He has been selected as one of the forwards on the mythical first team in the state of Pennsylvania. His coolness and clean play on the floor helped win him the place in the selection of the state team. His myriads of friends here congratulate him and his co-workers on The Times-Mirror join in extending best wishes to him.

LENTEN SERMONETTE

By PHILIP W. SCHLICK
Russell Methodist Church

Hebrews 11:1—"Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

The author of Hebrews clearly points out that faith is trust in the reality of that which is valid in the spiritual realm. We cannot see God, or the Infinite Purpose, yet there are indications of His Will and Presence which testify that He exists.

Those things which are good, just and true are indicative of the Divine Will. Intuition, experience, life—all these offer proof in the way of faith certitudes. God does exist and the unseen values of life are the substance of His Reality.

By faith in the living God, through trust in Him, and in the pursuit of the Divine Commands, comes life abundant. Jesus said, "Man cannot live by bread alone, but by every word which proceedeth from the mouth of the father."

In this Lenten season may we witness to the love of God, as we, in faith, trust in "the substance of things hoped for and the evidence of things not seen." May we walk in the blessed example of the Saviour of Mankind, the Risen Christ, Who showeth us the way of victory which is our faith.

Hi Ho, Hi Ho, It's Off to Work We Go

Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Late last summer, I made an effort to analyze rather thoroughly the streamlining of Congress under consideration by the joint La Follette-Monroney committee.

Recently the committee, after nearly a year of study and hearing everybody from cabinet members, Senators and Representatives down to the crackpots who invariably show up at all important committee hearings, made its report.

Acting on the assumption that everything can't be done at once, the joint committee dodged a few of the more highly controversial issues, but did recommend some drastic changes in the organizational operations of Congress.

Chief among these was the whittling down of standing committees, in which most of our laws are written. The committee would cut House committees from 48 to 13, Senate's from 33 to 16.

WHAT will happen to the La Follette-Monroney recommendations? Practically nothing. Victim of the very system they seek to correct, most of the recommendations will be ground up and lost in creaky congressional machinery.

Sen. Robert M. La Follette (formerly Progressive, now Republican of Wisconsin) has been fighting for Congressional reforms for years. Rep. A. S. "Mike" Monroney, Oklahoma Democrat, introduced bills several times for some of the important reorganizations suggested. What has happened? Nothing much. By a little dodging and ditching, Congress has worked up its "expense" accounts and provided for a little more committee help. Neither Sen. La Follette nor Rep. Monroney had anything to do with these circumstances.

CONGRESS is interested now on both sides of the Capitol in one of the committee's recommendations—raising the wages of its now $10,000-a-year members. Almost every one from President Truman to private industry and union labor has urged that Congress vote itself some raise. If it weren't for the upcoming elections, this probably would have been done this session.

The same may be said for pensions for members of Congress. This was voted once but repealed when voters started gagging about "Bundles for Congress." The fact that members of Congress would have paid part of their own way to pensions, just as civil service employees do, didn't make any difference.

The move to get better staffs for committees and members already has made some strides. Perhaps another generation can reduce the cumbersome, overlapping committees; force registration of the pressure groups (lobbyists); provide tighter fiscal controls; eliminate filibusters, and do a score of other things that would make our antiquated Congress an up-to-date legislative machine.

A COMMONPLACE BOOK

NEW YORK DIARY

MONDAY: All Fools' Day, 1946. The sun is shining with that special blue brilliance which is the true Manhattan cocktail. The air is balmy; the hurrying people a bit barmy. Spring in New York! At Rockefeller Center the daffodils and narcissus are blooming. The skaters whirl and pirouette, while a wreath of spring-garbed spectators watches from above. In the evening to dinner with Ernest Nathan at a Russian Tearoom on 57th Street. The borscht very good. The cocktails, made with vodka, taste like cough medicine. Ernie certainly a prize example of what brains and energy can do.

Thence to see "The Magnificent Yankee." Louis Calhern a little too broad and athletic, too much like a cowboy, for Justice Holmes, the ultimate flower of intellectual aristocracy. But he certainly does an inspiring job with the part. The colorless stage set cast a dusty shadow over the play, which is merely an episodic account of Holmes' life, beginning with his arrival in Washington at 61. For us it did not come emotionally alive until the third act; and then tepidly. The last tableau was stirring, with the aged Justice painfully straightening his bent limbs and drawing himself up to a soldier's stature to meet his commander-in-chief, the new President, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

TUESDAY: Visit with Russell Maloney, late of the New Yorker, and Miriam Battista. Their daughter Amelia, beginning to walk, gets all mixed up with three slippery dachshunds. Maloney recently began a dramatic section for The Atlantic; is working on a novelette for magazine publication and the movies; writing the lyrics for a musical show; doing a bit of lecturing. To Scribner's in hopes of finding a copy of "The Wind in the Willows." Surprisingly, found it.

Evening, to see "Harvey." Not since "Rain" have we seen such a remarkable assortment of "characters." Strange, how a lifetime of vaudeville could fit Frank Fay for this particular part and no other conceivable one. Best bits: Dowd's remark: "I have been fighting reality for thirty years, and I finally got the better of it." The psychiatrist's dithyramb about a beautiful maple tree near Akron, Ohio; where, with Harvey's aid, he wishes to sit indefinitely, a beautiful girl and an endless supply of beer at his constant disposal. Frank Fay's lengthy curtain speech, really an epilogue to the play.

WEDNESDAY: Dinner with Greta and Bill Pilat. To talk of the old days of our harassed but abundant youth. Bill, onetime Macy & Kimbel executive, was snared by the O. P. A. and authored the shoe rationing program. Then to England to help plan the strategy of the bombing of Germany. Then to the Pacific, commuting from captured island to island to observe air warfare results. All this, as a civilian. In the evening to Larchmont, to dine with Martha and Ben Williamson. Ben gives us a little inside dope on "Time," of which he is an editor. Drove back to New York, along the Hudson, where scores of rusty and weary warships, including the flattop, Midway, loom spectrally in the starlit half-darkness.

THURSDAY: Dinner with Jane and Herbert Reed. Jane, now librarian at U. N. O. headquarters. Herbert, recently returned from army years. Thence to see "Pygmalion," a dated social essay by Mr. E. Shaw. Much conversation, little dramatic impact. Maybe the play has a moral and maybe the moral is: there is so little difference between the upper and lower classes that you can take a cockney flower-girl from the streets and, in six months, transform her into a reasonable facsimile of a duchess. This may have been a startling pronouncement in 1910, but it bores us today. Gertrude Lawrence's interpretation was mannered to the point of eccentricity. Raymond Massey showed neither subtlety nor flexibility in his too harsh portrayal of Pygmalion Henry Higgins.

FRIDAY: Met Clint Wilder and with him to the Maloney's, where good conversation about the theatre. Then, an Italian dinner with overtones of garlic (undertones, too). Thence, to see Maurice Evans in "Hamlet." Edwin Booth set a record of 100 performances in his day. John Barrymore flippantly bettered it at 101. Maurice Evans has been going on practically indefinitely. This is said to be a Hamlet in modern dress. Yet the costumes range all the way from 1800 knee-breeches of Polonius to contemporary Danish army uniforms. We enjoyed the stage-sets and the lighting. Evans' portrayal was competent but not inspiring; conscientious but not moving; accurate but not lyrical nor even dramatically creative. As a ritual performance of "Hamlet" the play is well enough, but so are morning services at St. John the Divine's.

SATURDAY: Dinner at Le Bistrot with Tommy Sanford, surely one of the most distinguished artists who have ever gone out of Warren into the halls of fame. We were delighted to find Tommy unchanged in any way. Her studio in East 38th Street once belonged to Gutzon Borglum. Examining her sculptures, one cannot help being conscious of standing in the presence of a first-rate creative talent, even without the record of prizes and distinctions she has won in recent years. With Cornelia Chapin, a fellow sculptor of great distinction, she shares the most beautiful home we've seen in New York, or almost anywhere for that matter.

Thence to see "Lute Song," a stylized "love story with music" adapted from the Chinese play, "Pi-Pa-Ki." One of the most animating and satisfying spectacles in many a year, and certainly the best thing we saw excepting "Harvey." The only grating note was Mary Martin, whose night-club technique in "putting over" a song seemed out of tune with the lyric subtlety of the play.

With this, its fifty-second number, The Commonplace Book takes its regretful leave of its readers. We cannot fold our tent without a word of warm appreciation to the surprising number of people, in Warren and elsewhere, who have shown their interest by letters, cards, by direct comment. Perhaps we shall meet again one day. Meanwhile we shall enjoy the memory of this year's experience.

No. 11: Space Ships

ADVENTURES IN SPACE: The Story of Radar

BY DAVID DIETZ

Noted Science Writer; Author of "Atomic Energy in the Coming Era," Etc.
(Written for NEA Service)

(1) Scientists some day will have at their command rockets powered by atomic energy and easily controlled by radar. Such a rocket might be sent on a round-trip journey to the moon. Scientists would not care to travel on the initial trial of this rocket but it could easily be equipped with automatic still and motion picture cameras and all sorts of scientific recording apparatus—thermometers and the like. It might even be equipped with a dragnet or scoop to bring back a sample scraping of the moon's surface.

(2) Eventually rockets may become space ships, carrying passengers to the distant planets. This will be a far more difficult job than sending a rocket to the moon, for while the moon is 240,000 miles away, the distance to the planets is measured in millions of miles. The planet nearest the sun is Mercury. Then comes Venus, then our own earth. Mars is next, then Jupiter, Saturn, and the others. The first space ships would set out for our nearest neighbors, Venus and Mars.

(3) When radar-controlled rocket ships begin traveling to Mars and Venus, the passengers will be in for some surprises, to say the least. Imagine, for example, that you are in a space ship or rocket 10,000,000 miles from the earth, bound for the planet Mars. You are making the journey at a time when the two planets are closest to each other, and so you still have 26,000,000 miles to go. You would, therefore, be outside of the earth's gravitational field and not yet within the gravitational field of Mars.

(4) As a matter of fact, "up" and "down" are without meaning in the rocket. If a passenger wishes to recline at ease on the ceiling, he is perfectly comfortable in what seems to you, sitting at the table, an upside-down position. Since there is no terrestrial gravity to be counteracted, he has no feeling of being upside-down. But if the rocket changes its speed or direction, these changes would give all the effect of a force of gravity for the moment.

TOMORROW: The Invisible Navigator.

GOOD JOB— but what about MONEY?

A LOT OF THINGS go to make a good job. Interesting work, vacations, the people you work with. But the big consideration is money. Take-home pay—savings—provision for the future. Those are the things that count.

Compare the average job with a job in the Army.

Suppose you make $200 a month, when you're working. After all the deductions have been taken out—and after paying for rent, groceries, clothes and doctors' bills—how much have you left?

Army pay starts at $50 a month for a Private. But a big proportion of men in the new peacetime Army are specialists, with higher grades and pay. Suppose you're a Technical Sergeant, making $114 a month base pay. You get your food, clothing, housing and medical and dental care free. Insurance, amusements and incidentals cost you far less. And if you enlist before July 1, 1946, you get a family allowance for your dependents. You'll have money to save!

With a yearly 30-day furlough with pay, you work eleven months and get paid for twelve. You get the best technical training in valuable trades and skills. Chances for advancement are excellent. On a 3-year enlistment you can choose your branch of service and overseas theater—and overseas service pays you 20% extra! If you enlist before October 6, 1946, upon discharge, you'll have the privileges of the GI Bill of Rights.

The educational privileges alone after a 3-year enlistment are worth more than $5000 (48 months of college, trade or business school—free!). Where else could a young man save that much in 3 years?

Most important of all, after 20 years' service you can retire at half pay for the rest of your life—or on up to three-quarters pay after 30 years' service. To get that kind of retirement security in civilian life you'd have to buy an annuity costing you $84 a month!

If you are aged 18 to 34, inclusive (17 with parents' consent), and physically and mentally fit, you can enlist now in the U.S. Regular Army for 1½, 2 or 3 years for one of the world's best jobs. Without obligation, get full details at your nearest U. S. Army Recruiting Station.

"From GI To Civillian" Is Vet's Science Paper Theme

Carlton W. Kurz presented a fine paper for the April meeting of the Social Science Section, dealing with the transition from GI to civilian, and evoking a lively discussion period to follow. Secretary Louis Lind reports on the event as follows:

His paper opened with the thought that we have concluded one war but are faced with another. This one each of us will have to stand our share in too. It is getting the GI's reconverted to civilians. First of all the soldier's mental processes have to be re-molded to individual thought rather than following the dictates of his superior officers. Veterans are not asking or hoping for awards for what they have done. It was part of a job that had to be done. What they do want is aid in getting refitted to take their place in normal society again.

Nothing could strengthen our democratic way of life more than the entire public getting behind this problem which faces all communities large and small. The serviceman's first thought is probably for the job he is to take up as his livelihood. Some will want to return to their former employment because of skills they have learned in the service. Some will not be able to return to their old jobs but must be gainfully employed. Some will not have a job to return to due to the many swift changes which came about during hostilities.

After the serviceman has taken up the tools of daily labor he still will need guidance and patience until he has completely refitted himself. This is the first post-war period when the needs of the returning serviceman have come into strong focus as a problem to be faced and overcome. In World War I the chief concern was directed toward pensions. The GI's big problem or rather worry probably was centered around whether there would be a job for him when he got back. Of course a large number of people employed in industry would drop out when the pressure was off on production but still it was a worry.

The speaker felt that the following would be the best criterion of a man's suitability for employment: (1) his school record, (2) his work record before going into the armed services, (3) his achievements in service, (4) how long it takes him to apply for a job, (5) his attitude to himself, his employer and his disability, if any, (6) evidence of his maturity as shown by his martial status, savings and attitudes toward his dependents, (7) his plans for the future.

Mr. Kurz then presented a plan which had been developed by Capt. N. A. Pelcovits in a recent issue of Harper's Magazine as follows: 1. The principle of a clean slate. This means starting the veteran off with a clean slate financially. 2. The start in life bonus. When a soldier needs financial aid most is in the readjustment period. 3. The veteran period. The ex-servicemen should be given concrete aid and guidance by an expanded Veterans Administration. 4. The principal of social insurance. The veteran should have opportunity to participate in all phases of a social security program. 5. Veterans' RFC. Improvement of loan procedures for the veteran. 6. Education of the veteran. Guidance in a constructive educational program. 7. The principal of central administration. The world group all the services for aiding in the rehabilitation of the veteran. 8. The principle of no preference. After an ex-serviceman has graduated from his "veteran's status", the non-sense of veterans' preference would drop. 9. The principle of Pluribus Unum. Job guidance and training for veterans should be a must. The speaker summed up his remarks with a fitting quotation from an editorial appearing in the Oil City Derrick: "The Army says I can't wear my uniform after I arrive home because I'll be impersonating a soldier. The stores say I can't buy a suit of clothes, because they haven't my size. The police say I can't go on the streets naked, because it is against the law. I would gladly stay off the streets but I can't find a house to live in nor the material to build one. Having been wounded, the Army won't take me back because I am not physically fit. I shall be 21 in 1948. Can you tell me who will be running on the Republican ticket for president?"

DARK POWER
BY ELISABETH HOLDING

Chapter 29

SHE opened her eyes to look in to the face of Doctor Coat, who was bending over her. She stared up at him in wonder; he gazed back at her with an expression so unutterably woe-borne that her heart sank.

"James...?" she asked.

"The young man? Doing very nicely," he answered. "And how are you feeling now?"

She forgot to answer him. She was looking about the shabby little old-fashioned room where she lay on a sofa; the chairs ranged against the walls, the ancient magazines upon the center table, evidently Doctor Coat's waiting-room. Then at last she was really out of that house...

"What happened?" she asked.

But Doctor Coat turned away his head.

"Oh, please tell me!" she cried, alarmed, and, as he turned back to her, she saw tears in his eyes.

"I have known Emma since she was a child," he said. "I can scarcely grasp this... I... find this... very hard... to credit..."

"Please tell me about Wren!" she said.

"Now, my dear Miss Diana!" he said, with a pitiable attempt at professional cheerfulness, "put off your questions until you've had a good rest. Tomorrow..."

"I can't wait—a minute! I'll make me much worse, not to know. Is Wren—?"

"It's horrible!" he cried. "Unbelievable! A holocaust..."

He began to pace up and down his shabby, brightly-lit little room, intolerably stirred, filled with bewilderment and grief.

"Three dead!" he said.

"Who? Oh, if you'd just please tell me!" she said. "Only, it's so difficult..."

"I haven't quite grasped it yet... They sent a chauffeur for me, and I went... hadn't been warned in any way, thought of course it was Emma who had sent for me... I went to Rufus's room—and I found Wren there, dying from the effect

BY ELISABETH HOLDING

Chapter 30

"MILES' troubles are over, my dear," said Coat, and was silent for a moment. Then he went on:

"Perhaps the most shocking part of this whole terrible affair—to me—was the part played by those unfortunate children... I have never particularly interested myself in mental cases, and I took it for granted that Emma was giving them the best possible treatment. She was not. She had made no effort whatever to ameliorate their condition. She used them, in the most callous and unethical way, for her experiments. She withheld any treatment that might have helped them. Wren told me this. I don't know how he came to suspect it..."

"One of the children was his?"

"Yes, Emma had come across the child, and had offered to adopt it and give it proper care and treatment. However, the wretched man had acted as an unpaid servant for years, in the belief that he was benefiting his child."

He rose hastily, and crossed the room, stood by the window with his back to her.

"I can't tell you—" he said, unsteadily, "how sorry I am that you will have to be dragged into this horrible thing. The innocent to suffer for the guilty... But there is no escape for you—or for any of us. The publicity will be merciless... I only hope to Heaven that Emma will not be found and brought back. I—should find it very painful—to appear as a witness—against my old friend..."

As it was, she shall come out badly, Purvis and I..."

She lay still, thinking of that. It was not over; she had not escaped. Every detail of this monstrous crime, every smallest action of her own, would be made public. She would be an important witness in an incredibly sensational case, she would be examined, cross-examined, re-examined. All her words would be printed in the newspapers, she would have to endure the most hateful and shameful publicity. All her life, people would remember—"Yes—the one who was mixed up in that murder case." It seemed to her that, when she had crossed the threshold of that house, she had left her normal cheerful life behind her forever. That shadow could never lift.

"And now—how are you feeling?" asked Doctor Coat. "The effects of such a shock..."

To his surprise, she rose to her feet.

"I feel perfectly all right," she answered. "What ought I to do? Tell the police?"

"Fennel has looked after that," he thought. "He's not only been wounded—twice—but he'll have to be a witness, too."

"Mrs. Blessington waited to take you back to New York," Doctor Coat continued, "but I said I feared you couldn't stand the journey. However, you seem so much better than I expected—shall I call her in?"

"She's here?"

"Waiting in the next room. I should be glad to see you go with her. A very kind and generous woman..."

HE OPENED the door into another room, and Angelina hastened in; she was pale, but radiant as usual.

"My dearest Di!" she cried. "Put some powder on your precious nose and let's get going!"

"Will I be allowed to go? I mean—the police—?"

"My dear, James can do anything with the police."

"You know him well, Angelina?"

"But my dear! He's my brother! You must have heard me talking about 'Jammy'. He's a marvelous person. He's written books, my dear, about reptiles. And he's just come back from a trip up the Amazon, looking for boa-constrictors and things. The police will eat out of his hand."

"My dear, some fearful woman told Jammy that you left my house without a penny, and then I remembered... And both Jammy and Porter went for me. I admit that I was a vile beast. But why didn't you remind me, darling?"

Metzger - Wright's Is Headquarters For Teentimers' Designing Contest

Are you a fashion-minded Teentimer with a snail's pace for a keen back-to-school or sports outfit? Then you'd better get your fashion eye peeled for a wonderful opportunity to turn your idea into a national prize-winning style. That's right, the second annual Teentimer "Design and Name It" contest is now underway at Metzger-Wright's Store, the local headquarters for the nationwide competition.

The contest, which is sponsored by a national maker of Teentimer fashions, is designed to encourage Junior Miss America to express her style consciousness and individual fashion preference.

All girls between the ages of 11 to 17 are invited to participate in this design contest, which closes June 15th, 1946. All you have to do is create a back-to-school or sport outfit, including slacks, shorts or "pedal pusher" outfit, but not a coat nor suit. Then give your outfit a good name. Design and name it, that's the whole idea. If you can't draw, don't let that worry you because you'll find outline drawings for both your back and front costume views included with your entry blank.

Six winners will be chosen by local judges to represent Warren in the national contest for prizes amounting to a total of $1000. The designer of the national first place winning outfit will receive a $250 bond and a week's trip to New York where she will be the guest of the famous Hotel Pierre.

Final prize winning Teentimer styles will be judged by a battery of well-known fashion experts on the basis of their originality and practicality, not upon the art work. Among the judges are Dorothy Roe, fashion editor of Associated Press; Epsie Kinnard, Women's Page editor, NEA Service, Inc.; Matilda Taylor, Teen-Age editor, Women's Wear Daily; Pauline O'Sullivan, fashion editor, Miss America Magazine; Vyvyan Donner, Fashion Editor, Modern Screen; Grace Norman, designer, Teentimer Original; Emile Hartman, Fashion Academy; Helen Faith Keane, fashion editor, Liberty Magazine; Kate Smith, radio singer and entertainer.

Come on, you designers, get your Teentimer "Design and Name It" entry blank at your local headquarters at Metzger-Wright's Store. Fill in all the information and deposit in the official ballot box. Remember the contest closes June 15th, 1946.

"The Crucifixion" Beautifully Given For Palm Sunday

Observers estimated the number turned away from First Methodist church Sunday afternoon fully equalled the capacity house which gathered to hear and enjoy the beautiful presentation of "The Crucifixion," Easter cantata by Stainer, given by an augmented choir of First Methodist church, Richard Manning, scheduled to sing the tenor parts of the cantata, was unable to appear because of an attack of laryngitis, but sent an excellent substitute in the person of Morton Bowe, winner of the 1944 Metropolitan Opera auditions and well known light opera singer.

Mr. Bowe, who has sung with the Los Angeles Opera, St. Louis Municipal Opera Company, and on other service, Ford, General Motors and the Chicago Theatre of the Air programs, remarked in conversation that he has sung the Stainer composition many times recently, appearing last Sunday in Albany, N. Y.

Never, he said, has he sung "The Crucifixion" when it was so beautifully done as in Warren. He paid particular compliment to the splendid shading of the choruses, the artistic setting, the orchestral background provided by Evelyn Wolstencroft at the organ, and the superb preparation and direction of Byron Swanson.

Second guest star of the presentation was Henry Clarke, well known base of the Chautauque Opera company, who had many friends in the audience through his performances in nearby Norton Memorial Hall. One of the young opera singers, Mr. Clarke has a beautiful voice and a personality that makes listening to him a great pleasure.

Lesser solo parts were taken by Monroe Marshall and Clement Wolstencroft, both well known local singers.

Special bus loads came from Kane, Corry and Jamestown, as well as many persons from communities surrounding Warren, and nothing but praise has been heard for the beautiful production.

McKenney On Bridge

DECLARER IN UNDONE BY OPPONENT ERROR

Probably the greatest thrill of the Eastern States Tournament this year went to Bob Hawk, of quiz fame. Bob, who has been most generous with his entertainment in behalf of American Contract Bridge League charities, was finally persuaded to enter a bridge tournament. While it is true that he picked a great partner in B. Jay Becker, nevertheless it takes fine playing on the part of any two players to finish fourth in the Eastern States Open Pair Championship, one of the greatest pair games in the country.

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

America's Card Authority

When I asked Hawk for a hand, he gave me one in which he said he made a mistake and got a good score as a result.

Declarer trumped Hawk's third club lead in dummy, then led the other trump and finessed the ten-spot. Hawk said he was not prepared for this play and played low. Declarer then figured that East must have held the king-jack and two small spades and consequently he was afraid to play for the trump break. He also misguessed the diamonds.

While it is true he made two odd, that was a poor score in duplicate, as four-odd could have been made.

of the record set by Frank many of Hazleton in 1929. Prior to the Homestead game, he had been leading in the race for the guard post. It is a tribute to the fine coaching of Birney that his two guards were so outstanding that either could have made the first team with no protest. Peiffer is a veteran in every sense of the word. He played last year when Allentown won its first title, then went into the armed forces. He was discharged in time to rejoin this year's basketball squad, and wound up his career with a blaze of glory before 12,000 fans at Philadelphia's Convention hall. The selection of a center for the 1946 team was complicated by the abundance of so many excellent off-post players. William "Bill" Smith, of Allentown, was named to the mythical five. He was the best in the east; Andy Butko of Sharon gained acclaim in the west; Bernie Adams of Lancaster was a top-notch performer; and Joe Huth of Frackville deserved consideration.

Managers' Unanimous Choice For NL Honors Is Redbirds; American To Be Very Close

By JOE REICHLER
New York, April 15—(P)—Six American League managers think their clubs have a chance to win the flag, but National League pilots are in unanimous agreement that the star-studded St. Louis Cardinals is "the team to beat," according to their pre-opening day comments for the Associated Press.

One, Billy Southworth, of the Boston Braves, and former Redbird skipper, flatly predicted the Cardinals will win the National League pennant. St. Louis' Eddie Dyer says his team will have a good chance to win "if we are no more than five games from first place by July 4." Even Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics in the rival American League, went out of his way to pick the Cards to cop the bunting.

In sharp contrast to their National League managerial brethren, six of the 11 Redbird loop skippers, Steve O'Neill of Detroit, Joe Cronin, Boston; Ossie Bluege, Washington; Joe McCarthy, New York; Lou Boudreau, Cleveland and Luke Sewell, St. Louis, declared they fully expect to see their teams in the thick of the pennant fight.

None of the sextet ventured to name his team as the number one outfit, but neither did they yield an inch to other clubs. Perhaps the most enthusiastic statements were made by O'Neill of the world champion Tigers and Sewell of the 1944 pennant winning Browns.

Atoms Defeat Colts In BBL At Y 29-28

A foul shot by Bill Houston in the final seconds of the Boys' Basketball League first half play-off game gave the Atoms a 29-28 win over the Colts Friday afternoon at the YMCA.

The victory enables the Atoms to meet the Colts again next Friday for the 1945-46 championship. The Colts topped the second half title several weeks ago.

A brilliant second half rally almost upset the Atom victory trail. In the second quarter, with the Atoms leading by a 14-2 count, the Colts popped three two-pointers in succession to slice the margin. At halftime the count stood at 17-8.

At the offset of the third period, the Colts continued their rally to deadlock the tally at 18 apiece, but the Atoms forged ahead at the end of the quarter to lead, 22-18.

In the fourth, the Colts managed to tie the score again, 23 apiece, but with a few seconds remaining, Houston dropped in the deciding point from the free-throw line. Houston paced his mates with 9 points, while Schuler led the losers with 11. Lineups:

Behind the Lines

ARMY HALTS ADVANCEMENT

The call of Uncle Sam has halted, at least temporarily, the progress of Bob Lunsford in organized baseball. News from Florida over the weekend revealed that Bob has been released from Selma, Alabama, and sent to Troy, Alabama, where a new circuit was starting. But orders to report for induction will bring Lunsford home and take him from an excellent chance of making the "grade" in big-time baseball.

Two other local boys are currently training with Selma. They are Craig Bennett and Chuck Clawson. Both will be retained by the Alabama club, and Bennett, who pitched here last summer after being discharged from the army, shows much promise. Selma officials like his work, and they also are well-pleased with Catcher Clawson's advancements.

"Elmo" Wolfe, a fourth Warrenite training in organized ball, was released from the Cincinnati Reds and is now with the Atlanta outfit in the Southern Association. Wolfe writes that age and lack of professional experience are handicapping his work.

MEXICAN HAYRIDE

Big league baseball players are riding for more "hay," claiming that "Make hay while the sun shines" is the best policy. Quite a number of ball players have taken a poke at Mexico's high-flying, high-flying south-of-the-border loop, but present indications tend to a short fling.

The big money that the Mexican owners are luring the American boys with doesn't last forever, and most U. S. players are not accustomed to a war climate.

Scores of U. S. stars have been contacted with tempting salaries and offers, and the ones who did accept apparently are not overly satisfied. Both Vern Stephens and Mickey Owen returned from the loop and are facing a possible suit in court from the Mexican owners. Several who have experienced a turn in the "sunshine" league report that the money is not always on hand when payday arrives; that salaries are sometimes paid in Mexican dollars, not American; and that comment from "not-pleased fans is not as conservative as in the U. S. leagues.

Pres. Truman To Officially Open Season

By BUS HAM

Washington, April 15—(P)—President Truman and the national capital join hands tomorrow with baseball fans across the country to usher in the 1946 season.

Mr. Truman will take a south-paw stance in the presidential box between home plate and first base shortly before 3 p. m. (EST) and throw out the first ball.

By formally opening what sports writers predict will be a record-smashing season—the first since wartime—Mr. Truman will keep alive a tradition of every President attending opening-day baseball since shortly after the turn of the century.

Mr. Truman personally will set a couple of records—(1) As the first presidential southpaw; (2) By taking a party of 32 to see the game.

Putting aside affairs of state, cabinet members, leaders of congress and others high in government circles will accompany the chief executive to Griffith Stadium for a few hours' fun as Washington's Senators meet Boston's Red Sox.

After Mr. Truman's inaugural pitch, an overflow throng of about $30,000 will settle down to see if big league baseball is as good or better than before the war.

The senators will send Roger Wolf, knuckler and 20-game winner last year, out after a victory before the president. The Red Sox will counter with Tex Hughson, pre-war ace back from the armed forces.

Trout Season Opens Today; Well Stocked

Harrisburg, April 15—(P)—Thousands of Pennsylvania's licensed fishermen lined the state's streams today for the opening of the 1946 trout season.

Ideal weather conditions brought nearly 200,000 anglers out in search of more than a million brook, rainbow and brown trout reported in freshly stocked waters.

Charles A. Fresh, state fish commissioner, said all trout streams were in excellent condition for the official opener of the season at 5 a. m.

Included in the large number of sportsmen who cast for finny prizes were thousands of returning servicemen enjoying their first trout season in years, and other thousands of civilians who had been tied up with war production jobs during the wartime emergency.

French said that 1,092,000 trout had been stocked last fall after the 1945 season closed, and that thousands more trout had grown to legal size during the past year.

Griffith Stadium 'Home' To Players

Washington, April 15—(P)—Griffith Stadium is the home of the Washington Senators in more ways than one today.

Ten of the players, caught in the capital's jam-packed housing shortage, have found no place to live so sleeping quarters were improvised in stadium dressing rooms.

Sports pages asked baseball fans for help with such pleas as: "If you possess an extra tent, igloo or lean-to, kindly get in touch with President Clark Griffith of the Washington baseball club."

CONEWAGO LEAGUE

Don McComas' outfit had the opportunity of clinching the Second Half title on Friday evening, however, the Pettibones turned on the steam and forced the league leaders to be content with a 2-2 draw. The McComas were led by Devere Kirberger who turned in a

215 single game and 595 total.

Butch Gay aided the cause with a

200 game. For the N. P. C. boys,

Harley Rue recorded a 536 total, closely followed by Bony Keller's

532. Keller tossed a high game of

219 and Captain Charlie Pettibone contributed 208.

The second half title race may be decided tonight when the Mc-

Comas meet the Drakes. Three points still separate the two clubs so if the Drakes expect to go into the No. 1 spot, they must take four points.

GI's Now Can Learn To Fly At the Airport

Under the Government plan men who served with the U. S. Forces are being offered a chance to take up flying. Red tape which has tied up the plan for some time has now been unraveled and the King Air Service has been given the "go ahead" signal to open classes by the Veterans Administration. Work of giving lessons has been arranged to start today and the first class was held at 8 a. m. today. Schedules of classes will be taken up and arranged to suit the convenience of the greatest number of those who desire to enroll. The ground school schedule will also be set up with the same view in mind. Any veterans with 90 days active service or more and having an honorable discharge may be appearing in person at the office of the King Air Service, Warren airport for an interview may arrange for the work. Proper forms have been received at the airport which may be filled out, they are also at the Veterans Bureau. The Vets may then start their flight training. Interested Veterans please note: Bring your discharge or your eligibility certificate to the airport. If you have not as yet applied for a certificate of eligibility and entitlement bring your discharge to the airport at the time of the first interview and arrangements will then be made for you to apply for your certificate through the local office of Veterans affairs.

Ex-Soldiers On Canoe Trip In Town Today

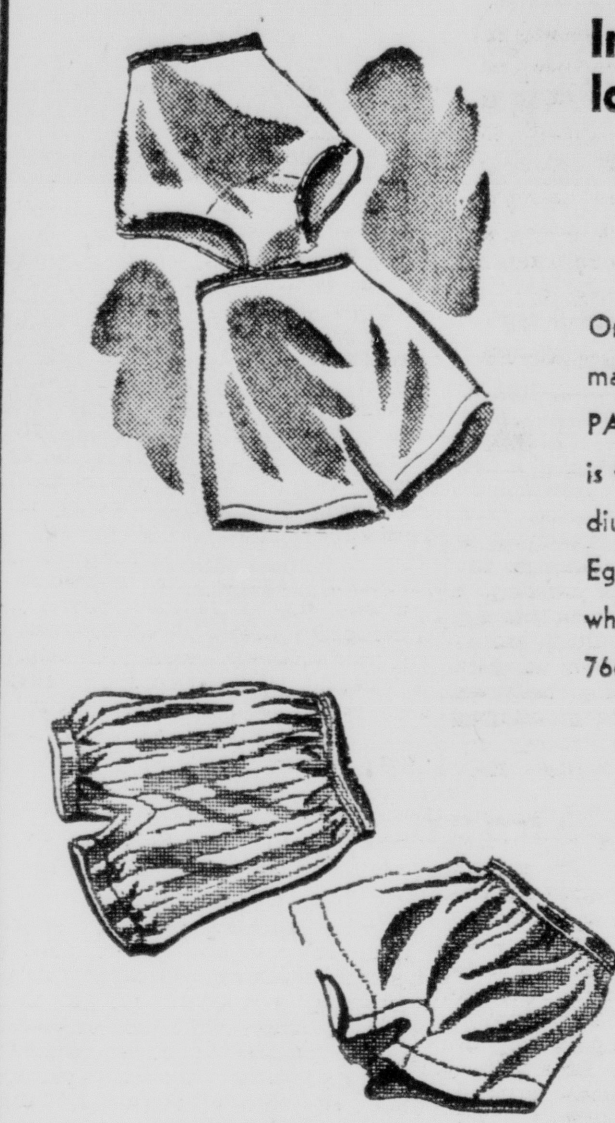

Two ex-soldiers spent a short time in town over the weekend on their way from Coudersport to the Mississippi by canoe. The following appeared in the Kane Republican relative to the tourists: Two hardy lads, one from Minneapolis and the other from Lexington, Ky., started off in a canoe from Coudersport Tuesday and expect to wind up at the mouth of the Mississippi river. . . And its a long, long jaunt. . . The two chaps are veterans and made their plans when they were stationed at a Texas air field during the war. . . They visited the headquarters of the Allegheny at Gold for a short time and started off at Coudersport, the highest navigable point in the Allegheny. . . They arrived at Port Allegany at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, after having to get out of their canoe six times to get it over the riffles, damaging it slightly. . . They planned to reach Eldred yesterday and to reach New Orleans in "several months". . . The canoe used for the trip is a new type plastic boat with a length of 16 feet and a weight of 65 pounds. . . It is collapsible and was built at Binghampton. . . The explorers carry three extra canvas covers just in case. . . The canoe can be navigated in from 6 to 10 inches of water if it isn't too heavily loaded. . . They should be passing Big Bend about now.
